MANY PROPOSALS REJECTED

Gov't Subsidy for Shipping Suggested

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer
OTTAWA (CP) — A federal royal commission after a three-year study of Canada's coastal shipping trade has recommended there should be no major change in law to give Canadian ships an advantage over competitors when the St. Lawrence seaway opens next spring.

The commission's report tabled in the Commons today, recommended basically in its 136,000 words that Canada's existing coastal trading laws be maintained as they are.

But it did suggest—though not recommend—that the Canadian shipbuilding industry might be assisted by a federal subsidy if seaway traffic from countries abroad worsens its position.

A big no was attached by the commission to a long series of other recommendations that came before it.

The commission, set up in March, 1955, by the former Liberal government, was headed by Mr. Justice W. F. Spence of the Ontario High Court of Justice and included W. N. Wickwire, Halifax lawyer, and Marcel Belanger, Quebec City chartered accountant.

Under existing legislation, the Canadian coasting trade is open to vessels on the registers of all Commonwealth nations on the same terms as vessels of Canadian registry. Non-Commonwealth ships can enter on certain specified terms on occasion.

Main question before the commission was whether Canada's coastal shipping trade—waterborne traffic between points in Canada—should be restricted in view of the imminent arrival of the seaway with deep-draught vessels going into the heartland of the continent with possible stiffened competition for Canadian ship operators.

The commission received recommendations that included holding the whole Canadian coasting trade for Canadian-built and Canadian-registered vessels, and some that called for a treaty with the United States to allow non-Canada-U.S. inland water traffic except by Canadian or U.S. vessels.

The commission turned them all down.

SUBSIDIZATION BEST
Of the proposal to restrict the coasting trade to vessels built and registered in Canada, it noted that this had been brought in by the Canadian Shipbuilding and Ship Repairing Association as a measure for protecting the Canadian shipbuilding industry. It added:

"The commission is in no position to determine whether the defence preparedness value of a Canadian shipbuilding industry would be great enough to warrant it being maintained at a level of activity higher than is in prospect without assistance.

"Should this be determined to be the case, the commission considers that a policy of direct subsidization of ship construction would be the least costly and the most effective way of achieving the desired result."

Indicating future prospects for Canadian operators, the commission said that on the east coast and the Gulf and River St. Lawrence, it appeared that Canadian and Commonwealth operators will continue to divide the field.

"On the Pacific coast," the report added, "the use of other Commonwealth vessels is of negligible importance and is likely to remain so."

Under the local improvement plan, property owners fronting the mains will pay costs equivalent to that of a six-inch line with the city paying the remainder along with costs of hydrant installations. Property owners' share is raised through a levy per frontage foot which can be paid either in lump sum or amortized over 20 years.

WATER CONTAMINATED

Health department reports of contamination of private water supplies in the area, spurred council to lay plans for extension of mains to Skaha Lake under a local improvement plan, last November. The plans were strenuously opposed by Skaha Lake ratepayers generally, contention being that the mains should be paid for through a frontage tax levied throughout the city under a self-liquidating water utility policy.

Desiring thorough investigation of the self-liquidating policy requiring several months, council has felt it had no alternative but to insist on local improvement for the present, offering concessions of maximum and minimum frontages on which the local improvement levies will be made.

Under council's latest concession, maximum frontage for local improvement levies on any one lot is 150 feet and minimum is 60 feet.

The petitions last week and yesterday represent the first breaks in Skaha Lake ranks permitting a start on bringing water mains to the area immediately.

Necessity of the project was underlined last night in a letter to council from the Penticton Medical Association which emphasized "the extreme urgency which the Penticton medical staff feels regarding supplying of contamination-free water to various districts of the city."

Strachan Blasts Monetary Policy

VANCOUVER (CP) — Opposition leaders today criticized the B.C. government sharply for its financial policy following announcement Tuesday that it is to borrow $25,000,000 to meet current expenses.

CCF leader Robert Strachan described Premier Bennett as "the mad hatter of finance."

"During the last session I urged the premier to keep liquid the $12,000,000 he announced he was putting into the supplementary sinking fund. We now have $48,000,000 in that fund, yet he is borrowing $25,000,000 and paying five per cent interest on it."

"It must now be evident to the people that something is seriously wrong with the finances of this province."

Liberal leader Arthur Laing said the province is "in a serious financial crisis" and "the premier refuses to be frank about his trouble." He said B.C. taxes are twice the Canadian average.

"The premier has borrowed $380,000 in five years and we are mired in debt. At the present rate revenue may be down $400,000 this year. Even the federal payment of our tax rental agreement may be reduced because the formula including corporation tax may be down."

"This government has been on

ROBERT STRACHAN

... something seriously wrong a patch of extravagance," said Mr. Laing.

Conference to Air Labor, Church Bond

Relationship of labor to the church is among topics for discussion at the 34th Annual B.C. Conference of the United Church of Canada which opened in Penticton Tuesday.

Ministers and laymen throughout the province are attending the week-long conference at which wider use of press and radio for propagating the message of religion and improvement of public relations are also down for discussion.

Penticton citizens have opened their homes to the delegates and 150 more are billeted at the Christian Leadership Training School, Naramata.

Dr. George Johnson, one of Canada's outstanding New Testament scholars, addressed ministers at a meeting in the Nazareth Church Tuesday night.

His lecture was the basis for discussion groups on the sacraments which took place at morning and afternoon sessions today.

Dr. Johnston, of Emmanuel College, Toronto, pointed out that in Christian baptism, "we must avoid two errors: on the one hand assuming that the Kingdom of God has come as fully as it ever will; and on the other that it is entirely in the future."

Other personalities addressing the conference are: Dr. Peter Kelley, Haida Indian, and this year's president; the Rev. R. Douglas Smith, minister of Robertson United Church, Edmonton, who is the devotional speaker; the Rev. M. C. Macdonald, of Toronto, secretary of the Board of Home Missions; and the Rev. C. H. Searle of Toronto, associate secretary of the Missionary and Maintenance Department.

Representing the Board of Publications is the Rev. Elmer Leaker, of Toronto. The Board of Evangelism and Social Service is represented by the Rev. Robert Christie of Vancouver.

Two Weekend Flights Added To CPA Service

VANCOUVER — For the convenience of Okanagan businessmen and weekend vacationers journeying to Vancouver, Canadian Pacific Airlines will increase service between Penticton and Vancouver to nine flights a week.

Effective May 23, the airline will introduce two new weekend flights to the present daily service.

The first new flight will depart Vancouver every Friday night at 6 p.m. (P.D.T.) arriving in Penticton at 7:05 p.m. The flight will leave Penticton at 8 p.m. the same night, arriving in Vancouver at 9:05 p.m.

The second new weekend flight, departing Vancouver on Sundays at 6 p.m., will follow the same time schedule.

"When the new weekend schedule goes into effect," said W. A. Chambers, manager, domestic lines, "Okanagan holidaymakers will be able to enjoy the attractions of Vancouver until Sunday evening, with no worries about returning home in time for work Monday."

"In contrast to the one-hour CPA service," he added, "the return journey by automobile from Vancouver to Penticton, takes the average motorist approximately seven hours."

June Budget

OTTAWA (CP)—Current planning is to bring the federal budget down about June 17, it was learned today.

Aussie Miler Critical Of American Training

By PETER TOMLIN

Improper training methods, team spirit and lack of desire are the reasons the United States and Canada have not produced their share of four-minute milers, So says Merv Lincoln, a man who should know.

Lincoln, a 24-year-old economist, is making a quick tour of the B.C. interior points while waiting to compete in the Centennial Games slated for Vancouver's Empire Stadium June 9.

SPLEANS TO STUDENTS

The handsome Aussie will pass through Penticton again tomorrow on his return trip to Vancouver. While here, he will address students of the Penticton High School.

His competition in the Centennial mile will include Derek Ibbotson of England, holder of the unofficial mile record—his time of 3:57.2 was not recognized because he was paced in setting it; Poland's Stefan Lewandowski, fellow-countryman Alex Henderson and Norman Lloyd, Canada's top hope for the four-minute mile.

Commenting on the Okanagan, Lincoln said, "It's amazing, I have never seen country like this in my life."

"America has only produced one four-minute miler," Lincoln said. "One of the biggest reasons is that the American runner is not an individual. He has to run for his team. He must run two or three times a week and on occasion doubles up in one day to help the team."

He continued, "An American miler probably runs 50 or 60 times in a season. I run in only about ten meets a season. I run the mile once every three weeks and not even then if I don't feel like it."

GREATER EFFORT

"This prompts me to put greater effort into my running. The American cannot take the risk necessary to break four minutes because he must consider his team first."

He felt that U.S. runners lack the desire to reach the top. They were not prepared to do the work necessary in training properly. Also a factor in his opinion was the vast mechanization in the United States. Australians do more walking, which makes it easier for them to undergo the strenuous training program required to become top middle-distance runners.

Lincoln listed as his biggest thrill, "Being a member of the Australian Olympic team in 1954. With all the strife in the world, it was quite a sight to see athletes of all nations gathered together in peace. It was very moving."

CIVIL DEFENCE FILM

Ald. Leslie MacCleave reported the Civil Defence organization would like to show a film to council if convenient. The film will be shown prior to the regular council meeting next Monday or the Monday thereafter.

THIS IS CARRYING CLEANUP REQUESTS A LITTLE TOO FAR

Asking the city to see that a next door neighbor keeps his garden free of weeds might be carrying things a little too far, Penticton council agreed last night.

H. G. Andrew, city clerk, reported a Dynes Avenue resident had phoned to complain that the next-door-neighbor's garden was overrun with weeds and also sported a pile of manure, asking that the city force the neighbor to clean up.

Although the municipal act empowers council to "declare anything a nuisance and have it removed," it was felt this type of complaint was on the "petty" side.

Mr. Andrew said this and other complaints by phone followed council's recent decision to force one property owner to clean up an accumulation of debris on his property.

Council decided last night to consider no further complaints of this type unless they are submitted in writing.

Unemployment Drops by 74,000

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian unemployment dropped to 74,000 in the month preceding April 19 but still remained far higher than a year earlier, the government reported today.

However, the bureau of statistics estimated there were more persons with jobs than a year earlier—5,453,000 compared with 5,442,000.

Between March 22 and April 19, the estimated number of persons without jobs and looking for work dropped from 500,000 to 516,000. The figure for April, 1957, was 306,000.

The April drop in unemployment was the first break in a rise that began last September and reached a post-war peak in March.

The government also gave figures on job applications with National Employment Service at April 18, showing a drop of about 58,000 in the month.

RECORD MARCH 20
The April figure of 825,539 compared with the post-war record of 883,660 at March 20 and with 545,464 a year previously.

The figure is considerably less than now. In the Commons Tuesday, Arthur Maloney, former parliamentary assistant to Labor Minister Starr, said there had been a drop of more than 171,000 since March 13. The March 13 figure would be roughly that of March 20.

Mr. Smith was replying to a question by Opposition leader Pearson who asked whether there were any Canada-United States negotiations in progress for an early warning system against intercontinental ballistic missiles.

COUNCIL PLEASSED WITH FETE

Penticton Histories Gifts to Pioneers

Penticton city council last night, bestowed grateful bouquets on persons helping to entertain the city's pioneers participating in the jubilee-centennial celebrations last week.

Biggest vote of appreciation went to a former alderman, J. G. Harris, who arranged a big portion of the oldtimers' activities. "The week was the success it was, largely through his personal efforts," declared Ald. F. P. McPherson.

Votes of thanks were also extended to the Women's Institute, Kiwanis Club, IODE, and Catholic Women's League for providing afternoon refreshments at the oldtimers' headquarters in the centennial pavilion, and to a number of city firms and organizations who co-operated in providing furnishings for the pavilion.

It was noted that many of the pioneers from out-of-town, did not receive their free copy of the historical booklet on Penticton. The copies will be sent by mail. Both those pioneers who attended the celebrations and those who replied to the city's invitation that they were unable to attend, will get a copy.

Three copies each will also be donated to the Penticton Branch of the Okanagan Regional Library, and to the Penticton High School library. Another compilamentary booklet will be sent to the Kamloops museum in return for the one sent for the local museum from Kamloops.

The booklets are on sale to the general public at $2 each. A number have been left for sale through local stores and others are to be offered through hotels and motels as well as the board of trade tourist information bureau.

The city clerk is in charge of distribution. Vancouver Public Library, which has expressed interest in buying copies, is being offered the wholesale price of $1.50 each.

J. A. Sather Dies 25-Year Resident

An unsuccessful candidate in Penticton's municipal by-election last summer, Joseph Adolph Sather, 493 Young Street, died Monday at Kamloops, aged 69. Mr. Sather was in business here as a flooring contractor and was a member of several fraternal organizations including the I.O.O.F., B.P.O. Elks, Lions Club and the Anglican Men's Club. Born in Rothover, Iowa he came to Canada 53 years ago and had lived in Penticton for 25 years. He is survived by his widow, Sophia Anna, whom he married in Saskatchewan in 1910; four sons, Arnold, Seattle; Palmer, Oscar and Rolf of Penticton; eight daughters, Mrs. R. Arnett, Los Angeles; Mrs. R. Thompson, Penticton; Mrs. L. Stewart, Kamloops; Mrs. G. Olson, North Kamloops; Mrs. T. Pate, Jacksonville, Florida; Mrs. K. Christensen, Penticton; Mrs. J. Smith, Vancouver; Mrs. J. Richardson, Lillooet.

Also surviving are 32 grandchildren and one great grandchild. The funeral service will be conducted by Canon A. R. Eagles in St. Saviour's Anglican Church Thursday at 2:00 p.m., with interment in the family plot at Lakeside Cemetery.

COUNCIL BRIEFS

IN NEW QUARTERS
Last night's council meeting of Penticton city council was the first held in the new council chambers section of the city hall extension that is nearing completion. The new chambers are more spacious than council's former headquarters which are now accommodating increasing staff and facilities of the administration department.

NO LOUDSPEAKER AD
A request from A. G. F. Jones to use a truck-mounted public address system on Lakeshore Drive to advertise his Penchline Pleasure Cruises, was turned down by council, policy being to allow only community organizations such advertising for special events. Mr. Jones was asked to attend the next meeting of the parks commission to discuss possible means of bringing his vacationers' service to the attention of the public.

ASKS TO LEASE PARK
An application from E. O. Hall, recent arrival from Alberta, to lease city land on Power Street for a trailer park, was referred to the parks commission for recommendation. It was noted that the property, formerly the site of a trailer park, was taken over by the city some time ago in exchange for purchase of an alternate site. Understanding was that a trailer park would not be operated on the city property.

PARADE OF HORSES
Penticton Riding Club was granted permission to hold a parade of about 100 horses from all parts of the Valley at its Centennial Gymkhana, July 1.

Centennial Spurs Historical Groups

OSOYOOS—B.C.'s centennial is stimulating historical groups all over the province, resulting in great assistance to the provincial archives, Mrs. G. Haggan of Grand Forks, president of the re-organized B.C. Historical Association, told the Okanagan Historical Society's annual meeting here.

In recording the history of B.C., the Okanagan society was setting an example to the rest of the province, Mrs. Haggan said.

She added that the provincial parks department had asked local historical groups provide wording for view-point legends, and suggested that the Osoyoos Oliver Historical Society provide the legend for the Anarchist Mountain Lookout, known as the International View Point, five miles east of Osoyoos.

NAME FOR BRIDGE?
Mrs. R. B. White of Penticton suggested the new Kelowna-Westbank bridge be named the "Walla Bridge" (pronounced "Wall") after the Indian Chief who owned the land at the head of Okanagan Lake and had medals from the King of England to prove it.

It was also suggested the bridge be named after Gaillard, first settler at Kelowna, who through his Indian name, had Kelowna named after him. Site markers are being placed by various local historical societies including the cairn at the site.

BOX COMPANY SEEKS LAND
Summerland Box Co. has asked to purchase municipal land near James' Lake behind the site of the mill. This is a spot at West Summerland which has always been thought of as a potential industrial area. Council has tabled the request and has asked Kyle Steele, manager of the company, to attend the next council meeting.

LINE TO BE MOVED
Electrical Superintendent A. B. Amundsen was instructed to have a power line which crosses a corner of the J. Christie property on Pineview Road, moved. This will be accomplished by installing a cross-arm on the pole in front of the property to swing the line away from the corner.

CROSSING SIGNAL
A letter from the department of transport acknowledged council's request for an automatic warning signal at the railway crossing on Vancouver Avenue, and advised that the Canadian Pacific Railway was being notified. Council is to be kept informed of further developments.

PETITION FOR LIGHT
A petition for installation of a street light on Roy Avenue East, signed by 12 residents of the area, was referred to the electrical superintendent. The petition also asked that the street be closed to remedy the dust hazard and this was referred to the superintendent of works.

PLATE GLASS INSURANCE
Quotations submitted by Valley Agencies, lowest of four submitted, were accepted for insurance coverage of the plate glass windows in the centennial pavilion. Price was $1832.82 for three years.

NOISE OF TRAFFIC
Ald. F. P. McPherson suggested that heavy truck traffic might be diverted from Main Street during hours of church services or funerals. This was referred to the traffic committee for recommendation.

Friday Night Shopping In City After June 1

Shopping till 9 Friday nights and other changes in Penticton store hours regulations were accepted last night by city council and are to go into effect June 1, according to present plans. The stores are currently open till 9 p.m. Saturdays.

Lawrence Swingle, chairman of the Retail Merchants' Bureau, Penticton Board of Trade, told council last night that objections from the hockey club to the proposed Friday night opening, had been discussed with the club executive and the merchants offered to cooperate in minimizing any possible effect on attendances at Friday night hockey games.

He said the merchants were anxious to have Friday night shopping in effect by June 1 in line with what he said, was a national trend.

To ensure that Friday night store hours did not detract from attendance at Penticton's nearly traditional hockey nights, Friday night Mr. Swingle said the games could start at 8:30 or 9 p.m. Merchants, he added, were willing to add hockey game reminders to their Friday advertising to assist larger attendances.

Bylaw embodying the change from Saturday night to Friday night opening will be ready for first readings at next week's council meeting, it was noted. A special council meeting during next week could give it final reading so that the bylaw would take effect at the beginning of June.

The bylaw will also include removal of all store hour controls on "corner stores" defined as "food stores owned and operated by a family and employing not more than two full-time employees." This and the Friday night opening, were asked by a merchants' meeting, May 2.

Another clause will permit stores to stay open Monday, June 30, since they will be closed in observance of the Dominion Day holiday on the following day. The present weekly half-day closing on Monday except during July and August when a six-day shopping week is observed, will remain unchanged.

Mr. Brower will also show three short films, two produced in Malaya and one on "The British Colonies."

Mr. Brower came to Vancouver in December, 1956, to set up a new office of the UK Information Service, fifth of a chain of such offices in Canada. A sixth is to open shortly in Edmonton.

After seven years war service, mainly in India and Burma, Mr. Brower entered the office of the U.K. High Commission in India serving as regional information officer in Western India until 1953. Then followed a short stay in Pakistan and three years in South Africa prior to the posting to Canada.

Tomorrow night's meeting is the annual meeting of the Canadian Club. A slate of new officers will be presented by the nominating committee, under convener's H. S. Hatfield.

AMONG PRIZE WINNERS IN 22-NATION POSTER CONTEST

Sixteen-year-old Lisa Bryan and Mike Roidl, 15, both of Penticton High School, have been named prize winners in the 22-country Latham Foundation International Poster Contest.

The two students submitted entries with 26,000 other youngsters from all over the world.

Miss Bryan was awarded fourth prize in class four of the contest while Mr. Roidl came third in class three.

Both students were tutored by Mrs. Gordon Kenyon during regular art classes at the school. Seven other youngsters from the same class also submitted posters, but were unsuccessful in their efforts.

Funeral Held for William Mock, 77

Funeral services were held yesterday for William Mock, 77, one of Canada's telephone pioneers, who died in Penticton General Hospital Saturday morning. Mr. Mock, who came to Penticton on retirement in 1950, is survived by his wife Gertrude and son Donald Valentine of Vancouver.

In the late eighteen nineties he worked with the Bell Telephone Company in Granby, Quebec. He later worked for the company in Manitoba before joining the provincial telephone system there.

He entered private business in Saskatchewan, first as a telephone line contractor and later as a moving picture theatre operator in Indian Head, Sask. This was followed by a radio business in Regina and then a return to telephone work for the Saskatchewan government.

For more than 50 years Mr. Mock was a member of the Masonic lodge and became a member of the Shrine, continuing to be active and interested in the Penticton lodge of which he was an officer.

Public Invited to Hear Dean McPhee At High School PTA

The public is invited to the May meeting of the Penticton High School P-T-A, tomorrow evening, being held in the high school cafeteria to accommodate the crowd.

Professor E. D. McPhee, Dean of the Faculty of Education at the University of British Columbia, will be the featured speaker and his topic, "The Philosophy of Education."

This is a subject of special interest at the present time, when the flaws in our educational system are being widely discussed, and it is anticipated that Dean McPhee will be able to throw some interesting light on it.

Valuable Historical Record

Penticton's 50th Anniversary Historical Souvenir is now on sale in city stores for $2. Everyone with an interest in the past history of the city should obtain and treasure a copy.

Though lacking the finesse of more expensive historical works, the small book presents the reader with nothing but well authenticated facts from cover to cover.

It is, we believe, the first and only history of its kind on Penticton and other parts of the Southern Okanagan.

In its pages the reader will find stories of the first settlers, the Indians, the coming of the railroad. Here, with photographs to illustrate many a story, are the tales the pioneers made in those hard days when nothing existed but a few huts and vast cattle ranges.

Here, too, is the story of the early fruit plantings, the errors and the heartbreak.

A great deal of praise is due Reg Atkinson and Joe Harris who between them compiled the majority of the book. The Penticton Branch of the Okanagan Historical Society rates a compliment, too, as do the city fathers for sponsoring the work.

It is a valuable book for this centennial-jubilee year, and will remain a standard reference for many years to come.

Encouraging Local Talent

The great movie capital of Hollywood, which is so noted for its use of superlatives in the description of its productions has unwittingly provided the world with one she might well be ashamed of. It could be called the "colossal boner." Yet, with a little adaptation, the situation could be applied to countless communities in both the United States and Canada, if not elsewhere.

Recently Hollywood columnist Bob Thomas told the story of a hometown girl who made good — but not in Hollywood. It concerned Gwen Verdon, daughter of an MGM studio electrician, who was born in Hollywood. She early determined to get into the acting part of movies and was sensible enough to display her talents wherever she got the chance — as a model, at night clubs, and elsewhere. She even got a few "bit" parts in some movies. But officially Hollywood, as Thomas put it, "couldn't see her."

So she took off for New York City and the stage, and very soon was a hit, and then a star. Now, ironically, Hollywood has invited her to take the lead role in a movie adaptation of the first musical she starred in in New York — "Damn Yankees." Then she plans to return to New York. Hollywood has missed its chance.

How true this is of communities far and wide. Boys and girls grow up in a town or city and, unless it is exceptionally large, they too often are passed over as potential citizens and leaders by their own people and have to go elsewhere to make a living.

A community spends many thousands of dollars on fine educational facilities to give their young people the very best. But too often they make that money an outright expense rather than an investment or asset because the young people are not encouraged to stay at home and they go elsewhere — frequently to the United States.

If recent weeks we have begun to hear about the first part of a "Buy Canadian" campaign to stimulate home industries and business in general. Should there not be coupled with that a greater effort to make it possible for our young people to throw in their lot with us when they have reached the age where they leave school?

Referring to the great swing to provide science education for our young people, the Montreal Gazette asks pertinently: "What is the use of training so many scientists if we don't at the same time provide them with an outlet for their abilities and training right here at home?"

The same might be applied to those in any other vocation. Many may leave their home community because of preference or some other reason, but every effort should be made to make a greater use of home talent after developing it, and not, as in the case of the girl from Hollywood, let it slip away only to regret it later.

Outlaw the Can Opener?

The royal commission on price spreads, which has already heard testimony of doubtful relevance to its task, has again been confronted by a witness who has led it along strange byways. The latest incident is not only of doubtful relevance, it could be positively dangerous: the commission has been told by a Prince Edward Island farmer that Canadian housewives don't work hard enough; the can-opener should be banned.

"I think we would be better off if there were a law against the can-opener," Roland MacDonald told the commission. "There's too much processed food going on the kitchen table. The average housewife just doesn't do enough." An associate, seeing the perilous course the testimony had taken, quickly dissociated himself from Mr. MacDonald's views, and heard himself described by the witness as a "timid soul" for his pains. "I'm the boss in my home," said Mr. MacDonald.

It might be wondered what all this has to do with price spreads. There is a connection, at least in Mr. MacDonald's mind. He maintains that if the housewife resorted less to the can-opener and took more trouble selecting and preparing food the producer-consumer price spread would be smaller.

Be that as it may, the proposition that the can-opener should be prohibited from Canada will be regarded as a dangerous heresy in countless kitchens across the land. Housewives may be with the farmer to a woman on the question of price spreads, but in all probability, and equally unanimously, they will condemn his effrontery in even suggesting the removal of so essential a piece of cooking equipment.

We have a feeling, moreover, that the housewives would in many cases be given vigorous support by their spouses and families. After all, banning the can-opener from Canada could have disastrous dietary consequences. Hunger is an unpleasant experience.

—The Edmonton Journal.

ANOTHER SUMMIT MEETING

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Senior Citizens Back Project

Sir:

As to your editorial Senior Citizens Housing Project.

It would be just too bad to let such a praiseworthy housing plan sponsored by a splendid organization go by default. But has anything really tangible as yet been offered?

Old people have grown used to false alarms, such as the proposed new hospital for chronic cases. The $30,000 reported held by the city (proceeds from sale of old hospital to Valley View) said to be earmarked for use in building an old people home, down town in city, later branded as a false report by the late mayor.

Again, old people as a rule are past their letter writing days, nor is it convenient for them in many cases to visit a downtown office to make inquiries about any somewhat vague or indefinite proposition.

I cannot see what there is to be ashamed of in old persons renting a good home at a fair price, but I know of more than one old person now living here in this city in homes that they are ashamed of.

If Kiwanis goes ahead with their admirable plans there is not the slightest danger of their money standing empty for they will be built and priced to serve the purpose for which they are intended. Thanks to the Herald also for raising this question.

G. W. BOOTH,
495 Winnipeg Street.

OPPORTUNITY MISSED

Pentictonites missed one of their "finest hours" when they left the Vancouver Symphony Orchestra to play before practically an empty house (compared to the seating capacity) Saturday night.

If our young people turn out in droves for such as Elvis Presley, one can only hope that in time when they settle down into adulthood, they will develop a better taste. Youth has always revolted against the rules of the day and age; rock and roll scream-ways is one of its manifestations.

But that adult-Penticton should show such a complete lack of interest and wish to once avail themselves of the one opportunity in 50 years to hear a full symphony orchestra, that is hard to understand.

Please don't say money is scarce. It is, but not that scarce. The price of 3 gallons of gas would have paid for a ticket. And how many pull up for 3 gallons of gas, only?

No, but a complete indifference towards something truly worthwhile, and a complete lack of eagerness grasping a rare opportunity, is the basic reason. And that finishes Penticton for any other chances to bring anything worthwhile to us. "So what?" I'll tell you what. Don't be surprised at juvenile delinquency, at general lawlessness of life, at being by-passed culturally and otherwise, if the adults of a community do not make the effort to appreciate good things when they have such a rare chance, and attend, that one time.

But not only that. This was a Centennial visit. From the one large symphony orchestra of this province. This was the visit from Vancouver's symphony. And Penticton produced an empty house. Did not even extend the courtesy to attend, on the grand scale, the concert given by this fine symphony orchestra, from our good C. sister town, and metropolis, Vancouver.

The concert visits, by soloists mostly, with one accompanist, and usually U.S. artists, draw enthusiastic full houses in the concert series. These U.S. soloists draw out of the community practically as much for their one-night performance, as the entire Vancouver symphony orchestra was to receive. Full enthusiastic houses for the first; empty house for our own fine B.C. orchestra, symphony orchestra, an artist each one of them.

And each and all of those who usually brand any effort to bring "good music" in, with the killing remark of "high-brow" or "long-hair" missed a wonderful chance to hear fine music without the effort of having to be associated with "high-browedness." (If that were existing; it's mostly in the imagination and only a shabby excuse anyway).

Symphony music does not need deep "understanding." Symphony, as all good music, needs only hearing, and in itself does the rest. Namely, provide you with unforgettable short hours of true values, of the truly worthwhile things offered to our lives.

Remember what the great Book of Wisdom tells us? That man liveth not from bread alone. It might say in 20th Century white man's language, not from bread, winning and car driving only. Penticton surely missed a lot Saturday night.

For those who are afraid of poor acoustics in the arena, it's much better than one expects. And why not find out first before judging? Saturday's concert at arena was a treat!

And for those who dislike sitting in the bleachers, there were hundreds of chairs, arranged attractively in rows, on the floor. The arena looked good like this, believe me. Only your seat was empty, citizen of Penticton, at the grand finale of your Jubilee-Centennial Celebrations. When the entire Vancouver Symphony orchestra came here to play.

One thought yet. Had this orchestra played in a town of similar size in Russia—their arena there would have been packed full to overflowing.

Seems that Penticton lost quite a few scores at their arena—last Saturday.

FLUORIDATION GAINS

Sir: "Fluoridation gains," we read in your editorial of the 13th inst. Over two thousand cities in the USA have rejected it; seventy-five have tried it and quit. The Swedish government, after a careful study, turned it down as has the Swiss. The Texas Medical Association consistently refuses to endorse it. The New York State Dept. opposes it, their action backed by the New York Telegram and the New York Daily Mirror. Physicians and dentists by the hundreds are against fluoridation, and the Dental Digest claims assertions of the pros to be unreliable. The A.M.A. in December, 1956, was not satisfied with the Ohio State Medical Journal, Columbus, Dr. Jonathan Fordman, M.D., concluded a signed statement:

"Therefore, I concur with more than 700 distinguished physicians and dentists many whom are teachers in medical schools, that the present state of knowledge, the addition of fluorine in the drinking water is not a safe procedure and perhaps we should be trying to get fluorine out of the drinking water rather than put it in. We know the proper approach to the prevention of tooth decay in the English speaking peoples is to get them to accept a proper diet."

You claim the Milwaukee brewers use fluoridated water. Under the Food and Drug Law fluorine is classed as poison; the use of which in processed foods in any quantity is prohibited. Hence in 1945 one of the large breweries was convicted and fined $5,000 for adulterating its beer with fluorine.

Food processors, we are told, and pharmaceutical manufacturers, are up against a problem since fluoridation of municipal water supplies; hence a well known ketchup manufacturer uses its own deep wells. Another large corporation is defluorinating the city fluoridated water at a great expense, whilst a plant superintendent of a pharmaceutical manufacturer reported that fluoridation of city water would result in concentrating a thousand fold the fluorine content of its products, forcing defluorinating to make sure such products are free from fluorine.

Then we have pig breeders being warned not to feed sows fluorine. In Penticton a horse feed is sold notifying the buyer on the label Rock Phosphate is "defluorinated." A tooth paste having fluorine in it has also a warning against allowing children under six years to use it, etc. You claim no one has died of it. No one has died through falling, but it is the after effects that kills them.

Now let us examine costs. The City of New York, for instance, uses 640 million gallons of water daily only 4 million being used for drinking. Fluoridation proponents tell us that only children between ages of six and twelve years benefit. Dentists state 30 per cent of these have good teeth, whilst the best they can hope for the balance is to cut down tooth decay 50 per cent.

To those who care to figure this out will they find that only one sixtieth of less than one per cent of the water is of any benefit, according to statements of the pros.

Therefore, were the City of New York to accept fluoridation it would spend $500,000 for a $1,000 worth of good. San Francisco it is estimated is spending $50,000 for $100 worth of benefit and Milwaukee according to your figure of $5,000 gets only $150 worth of benefit. From a total by different source of calculating we are told that for every $10,000 spent on fluorine, $9,725 worth of the product goes uselessly down the drain, and in doing so creates havoc to the pipes. In an industrial city the waste increases considerably.

Yours truly,
T. W. BRIDGES.

DIVERSION

It was late at night; the taxi had pulled up suddenly and the man from Aberdeen got out and began fumbling in his pockets. Finally he handed the driver a coin.

"I've known folks to give a bit over," grumbled the taxi-driver. "Aye," replied the Aberdeen man, "that's the reason I asked ye tae stop under this lamp."

"But I thought I wired you not to bring your mother home with you," said a husband.

"Yes," replied the wife. "That's what she's come to see you about."

"Both Smith and Jones proposed to Miss Brown. I wonder which was the lucky one?"

"It's too early to say yet, but she accepted Smith."

"My husband is an efficiency expert," said Mrs. Broom to her neighbor.

"What does an efficiency expert do?"

"Well, if we women did it, they'd call it nagging."

OTTAWA REPORT

Young Citizens Flock to Ottawa

By PATRICK NICHOLSON
Special Correspondent to the Herald

OTTAWA — Teen-agers representing nearly two hundred Canadian communities gathered in this national capital last week, to take part in the eighth annual "Citizenship Project", sponsored by Rotarians of Ottawa.

Arriving on Sunday, these young citizens were given a visual course in citizenship, sugar-coated with dances, concerts and sight-seeing.

They toured the centres of federal government and the headquarters of government agencies; they saw and often spoke with the living occupants of those high offices which make headlines in their social studies lessons; and their visit was climaxed when the Prime Minister, Right Hon. John Diefenbaker, presented a certificate of Canadian citizenship to each one of them.

This is the eighth year in which the Ottawa Rotarians have sponsored this imaginative project. They extended an invitation to every Rotary Club across Canada, and the first 186 to accept were able to select a local teen-ager to join this visit to Ottawa. Six Ottawa youngsters were also picked to participate with their out-of-town fellow junior citizens in this "Citizenship Project".

WIDESPREAD CHOICE

The guests could either be boy or girl, in the 16-17 age group. Smaller communities sometimes asked the principal of their local high school to select the lucky pupil. In larger communities, the selection was competitive. For example, one western city held an essay contest to pick the star pupils, then made the final selection by asking the stars to compete at public speaking. The winner was a girl, who will be invited to address her local Rotary Group and other community audiences on her return, describing her experiences in our capital.

Boys and girls in almost equal numbers made up the visitors last week. The cross-Canada selection included Ronald Storey from Charlottetown, Pierre St. Jacques from Quebec City, Jim Bolger from Kirkland Lake, Lloyd Lawrence from Orillia, Diane Gunn from Oshawa, Sandra Jean Pattison from Sarnia, Diane Paradis from Timmins, Gabrielle Hareson from Woodstock, Elsie Norma Alcock from Moose Jaw, Yvonne Caslor from Prince Albert, and Beverly Jones from Kamloops.

The home Rotarians of the visitors contributed to the transportation expenses to and from Ottawa through the clever idea of an equalization pool.

While here, the visitors were guests of Ottawa Rotary. Most were accommodated in the homes of Ottawa Rotarians. Thirty boys were thrilled to find themselves guests of the RCMP in their Ottawa barracks. The others were put up at the "Y" or in a motel.

Some visitors describing their experiences to me were obviously thrilled and delighted, as well as thoroughly instructed by the whole programme. This began with watching the Governor General drive to open Parliament in his four-horse landau, escorted by scarlet-clad Mountie outriders. It also included a visit to the Royal Mint, where our coins are made; watching our Parliament at work; being addressed by Hon. Paul Martin at a lunch in the famous Chateau Laurier Hotel; joining with the students of Fisher High School at a dance; hearing Commissioner L. H. Nicholson, the top Mountie, address them as their host at a dinner; and visiting Rideau Hall, the official residence of the Governor General.

PRIDE IN CANADA

I heard Mr. Martin outlining to them the privileges and duties of Canadian citizenship which he, as secretary of state at that time, had introduced twelve years ago. Commissioner Nicholson described the great interest the Mounties have in "youth", and admitted that his interest in attracting recruits from among those fine young visitors was only secondary to his desire to instill into them all the Mounties' desire to help all youth develop into happy, healthy, law-abiding and co-operative citizens.

At the end of the busiest and most successful "Citizenship Project" yet held, Ottawa Rotary president S. E. "Ted" McDonald told me: "It has been terrific." "I hope the time will come," he added, "when this project will be developed to the point where all young men and girls across Canada will be able to visit our beautiful capital, and to learn here how our democratic process of government is carried out. A logical development would be for our various governments to take over this project on that national scale."

SUPER-VALU New Zealand LAMB

These are the renowned NEW ZEALAND SOUTHDOWN LAMBS, bred and raised to be free of excessive fat and heavy bone. This lamb is not only the finest quality you can buy, it's economical too, having been specially raised to give more edible portions per pound.

HOW TO CARVE A LEG OF LAMB

1. Place platter so that the leg bone is to the carver's right. Insert the fork firmly into the large end of the leg and cut two or three lengthwise slices from the side nearest the carver.
2. Turn the leg so that it rests firmly on the surface just cut. Holding the roast firmly with the fork inserted into the left end, and beginning at the shank end to the right, make the first slice to the leg bone and continue to make thin slices parallel to the first until aitch bone at the large end is reached.
3. With the fork still in place, the knife is run parallel to the leg bone to free the slices all at one time. The slices should be about one-fourth to three-eighths of an inch thick.

NEW SHIRTWAIST DRESS

BY ALICE ALDEN

Despite sacks, chemise and sheaths, the shirtwaist dress is still very much in demand. Attuned to late spring is this smartly feminine frock of black and white checked taffeta, tissue-thin and crisp. Edward Abbott gives it a wide, open-collared neckline, and tucks red carnations into a belt of black peau de soie.

Posies a Splash of Color on Wallpaper

By ELEANOR ROSS

Posy prints in exciting colors and color schemes are making a big splash in home decoration as well as in feminine fashions, so this is really a flower-filled year for the distaff side.

Particularly beautiful are the flowers in the new wallpaper designs. These have a less gardenly look than before and are ever so much more exciting and fresh-looking. Encouraging news for the home decorator is that current floral wallpapers are designed to go anywhere in the home.

As a rule, the designs are small in scale. Fewer colors are being used and the designs are mostly flat rather than realistic.

TWO GROUPS

In general, these posy patterns fall into two groups: decorative designs and companion papers. Among the purely decorative patterns are exquisite multicolored bouquets of flowers with plenty of space between the pattern to give a see-through, spacious illusion.

Hang this paper on the wall, for example, behind a dining table and paper the other walls with a textured paper such as a pin-stripe or a quiet tone-on-tone geometric. The more silent companion paper would, of course, pick up one of the colors in the floral design or harmonize with the background color. This is an easy way to achieve a decorator look.

EXCELLENT SPOT

Another excellent spot for decorative florals is a rather dark hall. A wise choice will give the space a fresh, outdoor feeling so that it appears bright and cheerful.

Available, too, are charming new all-over Oriental floral designs, so delicately stylized that they can be used anywhere from the living room to the bathroom.

As to the companion papers to the florals, they are often small, neatly-spaced and go in for all-over tiny floral designs plus small scattered single blossoms. These papers give a room color and warmth in an inconspicuous way and make an excellent background for pictures, mirrors or portraits.

Church School Graduates are Principals in Wedding Rites

NARAMATA — Baskets of mauve and white lilies decorated the Naramata United Church Saturday evening for the impressive double-ring ceremony by candlelight uniting in marriage Helen Marion Morrow, Naramata, and Kristian Larsen of Penticton. Principals, who are both graduates of the Naramata Christian Leadership Training School, class '57, are the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Morrow, Brandon, Manitoba, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Axel Larsen of Bording, Denmark.

Rev. R. P. Stobie officiated when the charming dark-haired bride was given in marriage by Rev. R. A. McLaren, principal at the Naramata church school. Her ballerina gown of white lace, with panels of net enhancing the bouffant skirt, was worn with a bolero of lace and net, and lace lily-point mittens. A head circlet of white stephanotis clasped a chapel veil of silk illusion and she wore the groom's gift, necklace and earrings of silver set with rock diamonds, as her only jewelry. Her bouquet was styled of white lilies and stephanotis centred with a single blue iris.

Miss Albertin Kish, a classmate at the Christian Leadership Training School, was the bride's only attendant. She carried red and white tinted carnations and cream roses to provide a pretty color accent for her waist-length frock fashioned of pale green net and taffeta. She wore a headpiece of matching colored carnations.

Other graduates from the church school, Douglas Brown, class '57, was best man, while the ushers were Bill Green and Arnos Tallo, class '58, Mrs. N. F. R. Wheatley was wedding organist and Mrs. K. M. Pattison, soloist.

Vancouver visitors for the long weekend included Mrs. Jim Cornwall, who is a guest with her parents; Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Long, Gretna Ranch; Mr. and Mrs. Gary Topham and small son, guests with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Topham, Jr.; Alfred Mash, who is visiting his parents, and John Cameron, a visitor from Lytton.

A fair crowd attended the Mother's Day tea sponsored by the Senior WA to the United Church on Tuesday. The table featuring children's sports clothing, proved to be very popular.

Mr. and Mrs. Kurt Domi left on Thursday to attend a three-day convention of the Western section of the Theosophical Society being held in Victoria. Delegates were expected from Winnipeg, Edmonton, Calgary, Vancouver as well as valley points and Victoria.

Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Webster of Regina stopped to visit Mr. and Mrs. W. Selwyn en route to the Shiraners' convention in Kamloops.

AROUND TOWN

Coffee Party Honors Miss Sharon Crook

Mr. and Mrs. W. Harry Crook, Eckhardt Avenue, West, entertained at a farewell coffee party Saturday evening for their daughter, Sharon, bride-elect of David S. Boyer of Washington, D.C. The popular bride-to-be, who is a former Penticton Peach Festival queen, left yesterday for Salt Lake City, Utah, from where she will travel to join her fiancé at Philadelphia for their wedding May 31.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kluck left yesterday by car to travel to Vancouver for the graduation of their son John from UBC.

Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Williams and two small daughters, Janice and Laurie, were here from Vancouver to spend the holiday weekend with Mrs. Williams' parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Macdonald.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Phipps with Valeria and Robert have arrived from Baghdad to spend a two-month vacation with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Phipps, Latimer Street. Mr. Phipps, who is associated with the Pan-American Airways, is visiting his former home for the first time in twelve years, while Mrs. Phipps and their children are making their first visit to Canada.

Mrs. William London is here from Port Hammond to visit her sister-in-law, Mrs. W. D. Goodman, and to attend the United Church conference.

The Jordanette Circle of the Penticton United Church Women's Federation will meet tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. B. W. Forrest, 1428 Manitoba Street.

Mrs. J. Hazlett of Orange, California, is a guest in Penticton at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. May, Victoria Drive. Other visitors for the long holiday weekend included their son Gordon, a UBC student, who is employed at Shalalth for the summer months, and Bob Hoyer of Kamloops.

CWL Gives Support to Volunteer Services

Members of St. Ann's Catholic Women's League give support to various local volunteer services as part of their regular work program. Plans for participating in a number of current projects were discussed at the May meeting held in St. Joseph's Auditorium with Miss Margaret McAstocker presiding in the absence of Mrs. J. Vincent Carberry.

Mrs. Richard Ferguson and Mrs. Hugo Dumont will serve at the Senior House on June 11, and Mrs. Norman Jenkins and Mrs. B. Lytle will visit the hospital for the month of May.

Miss McAstocker and Mrs. Edith Dunham will represent the CWL at the June 2 meeting of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, and the members approved the suggestion that the League sponsor the pre-dance party for Peach Festival royalty and their guests on August 6. The latter party, which is held annually prior to the colorful Queen's Ball, will be convened by Mrs. Wilfred Gervang.

Other business included plans for a membership tea on June 18 to which all women of the parish are invited. Mrs. Tony Biollo will supervise party details. St. Patrick's Circle will be in charge of arrangements for a rummage sale in St. Ann's Hall June 7.

When the annual CWL convention is held at Trail May 23 to 25, Mrs. Carberry will be the official delegate from Penticton. Mrs. Helen Townsend advised the meeting that eight Girl Guides from the 3rd Penticton Company will travel to Wenatchee to be guests of the Camp Fire Girls in that centre. A church parade will be held for the 3rd Company of Guides and the 4th Brownie Pack June 8.

Following adjournment Rev. Francis Quinlan, O.M.I., showed slides. Refreshments were served by Mrs. George Schaab and Mrs. E. Ackerman to conclude the evening.

Another way to use a small floral design is on the ceiling—for example, in a powder room. A solid colored paper in a stimulated texture could be used in the side walls. Rooms that are seemingly "cut up" with a great many jogs and openings can be smoothed out and disguised with a small, neatly-spaced floral wallpaper or a tiny all-over floral design.

Among those assisting in serving during the refreshment hour were the Misses Lottie Franklin, Joan Sanderecock, Darlene Harding, Jean Stobie and Nell Veale. Mrs. Larsen was attractively attired in a navy rayon tweed suit with navy and white accessories and corsage of red roses when the newly married couple left on a honeymoon motor trip to California, travelling south via the Oregon coast route.

Among the out-of-town guests were Miss Ruth Packham and Miss Freda New of Vancouver; Miss Heverley Staples of Creston; Bill Hong of Cluny, Alberta; Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Brown, Penticton; Miss Lily Kabayama and Joe Kabayama, both from Kelowna.

LET'S EAT

Low-Calorie Luncheon With Japanese Flavor

The pleasantly plump little lady, sitting next to me at a luncheon gazed uncertainly at her crab-meat cocktail.

"Are fish and shellfish suitable to include in a reducing diet?" she finally asked.

VARY THE DIET

"All are excellent protein foods," I replied, "and help to make a reducing diet both varied and interesting. But some fish, such as salmon and mackerel, contain more fat than others. Also, when smoked or canned, fish contain more fat than when fresh. Of course when fat is used in cooking, the fat calories increase."

"How about this crab-meat cocktail?" pursued the lady.

"Crab-meat, either canned or cooked, contains so little fat it need not be considered. But if it is cooked with fat, or eaten with a rich fish cocktail sauce, the calories increase in proportion."

"Then I'd better eat the crab-meat in this cocktail and leave the sauce," she concluded.

AS A SALAD

"But it would be all right to add a little salt and pepper, squeeze over the juice from that lemon wedge and eat it like a salad," I suggested.

"I'm giving a little luncheon party soon," she remarked. "Most of my guests are reducing, too. Would you plan a low-calorie Japanese-style menu containing crab-meat for me to serve?"

I gave her the following menu for a Japanese luncheon: JAPANESE LUNCHEON (Low Calorie)
Clam Broth
Water Cress Garnish
Fresh Vegetable Relishes
Broiled King Crabmeat with Garlic Butter
Flaky Rice
Purple Plum Mandarin
Orange Cup
Tea

For a Family Dinner: Add Green Beans, Spinach or a Vegetable Macédoine, Coffee and Milk.

All measurements are level; recipes proportioned to serve 4.

Broiled King Crabmeat: Remove contents from 2 (6½-oz.) cans Japanese King crabmeat. Remove membranes; be careful to keep large chunks whole.

Place crabmeat on an oiled oven-proof platter or shallow casserole. Meantime, in a saucepan, put ½ stick butter and 1 thin-sliced peeled section garlic. Slowly melt butter. Remove garlic and pour over crabmeat.

Broil 4" from source of heat for 5 min. Serve over flaky rice, which absorbs any remaining butter-garlic sauce.

Tories Under Attack

By ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer
OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservatives came under attack from inside and outside their big Commons membership Tuesday.

J. C. Van Horne (PC—Restigouche—Madawaska) was the inner voice as he enlivened the throne speech debate with criticism of a wide range of government policies — particularly as they affect employment in his New Brunswick constituency.

The Campbellton lawyer, who used to blister the former Liberal government when he was in opposition, said if it weren't for unemployment insurance "many of the people in my constituency would have been driven to insurrection."

BOOST SUPPORTS

Conditions were almost as bad as under the previous "dead, slack, lack-lustre, unimaginative, unapproachable former Liberal government."

He called for a doubling of family allowances, a boosting of basic supports provided by the governments new farm price supports act, lower down payments for homes and the sale of the public-owned CBC which was "a mess."

Meanwhile a pair of Quebec Liberals continued what appears to be a campaign to fasten the label of their political enemy, Premier Maurice Duplessis, on most of the 50 Conservative MPs from that province.

Adrien Meunier, Montreal P. pincau, and Yvon Dupuis, St. Jean, Therville — Naperville, said the new French-speaking Conservative MPs from Quebec speak with two political voices. In Quebec they supported Mr. Duplessis' Union Nationale policies but in Ottawa they were committed to supporting federal policies that Mr. Duplessis opposed.

Both speakers cited, as policies in point, the Trans-Canada Highway, federal grants to universities and Canada's participation in the Colombo Plan.

Mr. Dupuis three times was called to order by Deputy Speaker Pierre Sevigny, who said the member was improperly introducing provincial politics into the federal House.

The day's debate also saw continuation of two arguments which in recent days have come from the opposition side: A Liberal appeal for tax cuts and a CCF demand for diplomatic recognition of the Communist Chinese government.

Frank Howard (CCF—Skeena) said Canada has "a moral obligation" to recognize the existence of the Red Chinese government.

"APING" U.S. POLICY

The present policy of non-recognition was merely "aping" United States policy. Now it appeared possible the U.S. policy might change before long and Canada would be caught short on chances of expanding trade with China.

William Houck (L — Niagara Falls) called for removal of the 12-per-cent excise tax on automobiles to give "a lift to the economy."

In the Senate, the government bill to provide an additional $350,000,000 for direct federal mortgage lending was passed after debate.

Senator David Croll (L — Ontario) said the government is in the housing business to stay and he wasn't worried about the effects of this on private lending companies.

"They've only got themselves to blame. Whatever suffering they might have is from self-inflicted wounds."

Local Woman is Named Director

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mentally retarded children should be left to private individuals and institutions. Retarded children, they said, are entitled to facilities and services the same as normal children, but adapted to their special needs.

Delegates from 32 B.C. centres feel the responsibility should not be left to private individuals and institutions. Retarded children, they said, are entitled to facilities and services the same as normal children, but adapted to their special needs.

The association estimated about 10,000 B.C. children are retarded.

Mrs. W. A. Goepel of Vancouver said the association hopes to put the resolution before the B.C. government within about a month.

R. E. McCallum of North Vancouver was elected president of the association succeeding H. H. Goosen of Chilliwack.

Other officers include second vice-president, Robert Gore of Kelowna; Directors: Dr. William Endicott, Trail; Mrs. Helen McNair, Vernon; Mrs. Constance Hawley, Prince George; Mrs. Margaret Davidson, Nanaimo; Mrs. Selth Halton, Victoria; Mrs. Esme Ford, Kamloops; Mrs. Marjorie Wells, Penticton.

Farm Price Fixing Failed Says Benson

WINNIPEG (CP) — Farm price-fixing in the United States has "failed" and acreage control measures have "not been successful," Ezra Taft Benson, U.S. secretary of agriculture, said Tuesday night.

He was here to address the 79th annual meeting of the Winnipeg Chamber of Commerce.

At a press conference prior to the dinner meeting, Mr. Benson said he wants to see a gradual reduction in price supports to enable American producers to compete in world markets and to give farmers freedom from government control.

WEARY OF INTERFERENCE

American farmers are tired of government interference in their affairs, he said. There is a "growing tendency for less government regulation and control and less price fixing."

There has been a "tremendous change in sentiment" with regard to rigid price supports in recent years and the idea of a "flexible program" is gaining more acceptance.

Later, in his address to the annual meeting, Mr. Benson said that many American congressmen are in a "very difficult position" because of this change in attitude toward price fixing and

Supersonic Planes Look Like Missiles

By JOSEPH MACSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer
ELGIN AIR BASE, Fla. (CP) — It's getting so that you can't tell the planes from the missiles without a program.

This was the reaction of one ground-hugger while attending an air show in which the United States rolled out the most awe-inspiring aircraft in its arsenal at this development base near the Gulf of Mexico.

Supersonic warplanes, with their small wings and fierce aspect, looked little different from "air breathing" missiles like the intercontinental Snark and the tactical-range Matador, which were standing nearby.

Such a plane is the newest member of the air weapons inventory — the Convair B-58 Hustler, a supersonic bomber whose top speed is still a secret. It did a fly-past at low level as a demonstration.

The greatly increasing strategic importance of missiles was indicated when a B-47 medium bomber flew past carrying a Bell GAM-63 Rascal guided missile, an air-to-ground weapon capable of carrying a conventional or nuclear warhead.

DEVELOPMENT SPURRED
Officers here and at Cape Canaveral, Fla., gave a run-down on missile development — "the state of the art," as they call it and the progress of the U.S. in matching the achievements of the Russians in this field.

Some 50 different types of rockets and missiles of all sizes are being developed by the U.S. air force, army and navy, not including the navy's Vanguard earth satellite program.

The air force has announced that the Matador as well as the Falcon and Genie, both air-to-air weapons, are operational, while operational training units have been established for the Atlas, the West's first intercontinental ballistic missile.

Training units also have been established for the Snark, the Rascal and the Bomarc, a surface-to-air weapon of supersonic power, and the Thor, the first intermediate range ballistic missile.

Reporters were shown a Thor standing on its operational carriage and an officer reported that "over a dozen of the birds

LEBANESE CITIZENS view the wreckage of the U.S. Information Agency library in Tripoli after it had been bombed and burned. The U.S. state department says the demonstration was inspired by sympathizers of the United Arab Republic but it has given President Camille Chamoun a crisis which his pro-Western government may not survive.

Outside Pressures Help Stir Lebanese Violence

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—The violence in Lebanon can best be described as a political explosion basically rooted in domestic politics—the Outs want to be in. Ten years ago the world would have paid little attention. Today, because of her geography, Lebanon's troubles have deep meaning for a world involved in cold war.

The quarrel is internal, but intruding upon this tiny stage are Russians and Americans, Communists and anti-Communists, pro-Nasser forces and anti-Nasser elements, Christians and Moslems.

NOT ALL ANTI-WESTERN
Because the government of President Camille Chamoun has a reputation for being pro-Western, the West labelled all the opposition anti-Western. This was not so.

Outside pressures nagging at this strategically situated country of some 3,000,000 Christians and Moslems helped turn a domestic political fight into a fever of violence since Lebanon has not known since she became independent of France in 1943.

At least 200 lost their lives, some of them innocent bystanders.

The outbreaks shattered Beirut's shops and turned the capital into a dead city by night under rigid curfew. Police and army patrols roamed the city, threw up checkpoints and roadblocks, arrested hundreds of suspects, fought gun battles with hoodlars.

SCORES DEPORTED
The army deported scores of Palestinians, Syrians and Egyptians suspected of being under orders to exploit Lebanon's internal troubles for the benefit of Nasser's United Arab Republic.

Where did the violence come from? Everybody disclaims it. But bombs went off, and gun battles became commonplace in some areas. In the north, the army battled forces at Tripoli under Opposition Leader Rashid Karami, a pro-Syrian who posed a threat of seeking armed Syrian interference.

South of Beirut, the quarrel engulfed the Druze people. Half of them sided with the opposition and rallied to Kamal Jumblatt, a Druze politician. The other half

Rescued Pilot Kept Wits After Crash

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Radio turned on
Lieut. Raymond G. Hall, 28, was conscious and "progressing well" at nearby Lancaster Veterans' Hospital today after surviving a plane crash 25 miles northeast of here.

Hospital officials said he is still groggy. Bones around his left eye are smashed and his lower jaw displaced. Dr. D. P. Goel said Hall also suffered shock and possible limb fractures.

A native of South Slovan, B.C., he staggered out of the woods Tuesday, collapsed in a clearing and lay there until found. The plane, in which he was alone, crashed Sunday. Hall was found by a farmer about 500 yards from the crash site.

There was evidence Hall had managed to keep his wits. Scrawled on the wing in pencil was the message "I have gone that way" and an arrow pointing into the woods. He had hung his necktie beside it to attract attention to the words.

The plane's radio was on and tuned to the Saint John airport radio range.

Hall had been alone in the aircraft on a 35-minute flight from Fredericton to Saint John.

"I remember leaving Fredericton and everything was clear going until I suddenly hit fog and crashed," he told rescuers.

Ground and aerial search had been concentrated in a different area, west of Saint John, where a flash in the sky was reported seen early Sunday.

Partial blindness because of a head injury prevented him from finding his way out of the woods until he heard the bleating of penned sheep and followed the sound to the clearing, where he collapsed on the farm of Lawrence Cummings.

The latter, plowing a nearby field, was taking a short cut to replace a broken whip - tree when he spied Hall, weak but conscious.

Can Saskatchewan Force Breath Test?

By BERNARD DUFRESNE
Canadian Press Staff Writer
OTTAWA (CP)—Can a province force motorists suspected of drunken driving to submit to a breath analysis?

The question, now before the Supreme Court of Canada, has significance since the criminal code says a motorist charged with drunken or impaired driving is not required to take such a test.

Saskatchewan last year enacted legislation authorizing the provincial highway traffic board to suspend for 90 days the licence of a motorist who refuses a police officer's request to give a sample of his breath for chemical analysis.

CONSTITUTIONAL TEST
The constitutional validity of the legislation is being tested in the Supreme Court, mainly on the ground that it conflicts with the criminal code, which comes exclusively under federal jurisdiction.

Hearing on the issue was started Tuesday with argument from E. C. Leslie of Regina, counsel representing the Saskatchewan attorney general, and E. D. Noonan, counsel appointed by the Saskatchewan Court of Appeal, and is expected to be concluded today.

The federal justice department, represented by David Henry, has intervened in the issue, contending that the provincial law is beyond the legislature's powers.

Mr. Noonan argued that the provincial law conflicts with the criminal code because, in effect, it compels a motorist to take the test or suffer loss of his driving licence.

He said one would have to be "pretty naïve" not to see that the immediate purpose of the legislation is to obtain more convictions.

Mr. Justice Douglas Abbott, one of nine judges hearing the appeal, said he sees no difference between a breath test and a driving test for a motorist.

Each day Walter tramps the lonely road to his cemetery, opens the wrought-iron gates and does a little caretaking. On the side, he grows a truck garden in the spaces where the graves ought to be.

In desperation the council advertised in the newspapers last February that New Cemetery "is now available for burials." No response.

"Maybe," said council clerk Ronald Dixon, "people insist on being buried where their parents and grandparents are buried. We have done all we can. It's a lovely little cemetery."

Walter, sadly weeding his onions, radishes and lettuce, said he sometimes despairs of ever making a start on his life's work.

"How do you like my hat?" asked a young wife innocently.

"It looks silly," said her tactful husband. "Why don't you return it?"

"Oh, I can't return it. You see it's my old one. But since you don't like it, I can go and buy a new one."

Soviet Bloc Leaders Plan Moscow Talks

By VINCENT BUIST
MOSCOW (Reuters)—Europe's Communist countries will hold their own summit conference here Saturday.

Leaders of the eight - country Warsaw Pact are expected to take up issues discussed by Western military leaders at the Atlantic Pact meeting in Copenhagen two weeks ago.

Heads of government, foreign ministers and ministers of the armed forces of the Soviet Union, Albania, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, Romania, Poland, East Germany and Hungary will attend the talks.

STRESS NATO MILITARISM
Subjects slated for discussion include Western plans for rocket bases in Europe, the decision to arm West Germany with nuclear weapons, and American and British nuclear test explosions.

The Communist bloc may also propose again a non-aggression pact between NATO and the Warsaw Pact states, as well as a nuclear-free zone in Central Europe and the Middle East, the cessation of nuclear tests and a system of disarmament inspection.

The conference will probably try to stress NATO's military character by re-emphasizing the Communist bloc's desire for East-West summit talks and an end to the cold war.

A meeting of leaders representing member states of the Council of Economic Mutual Assistance—Communist equivalent of the Western Organization for European Economic Co-operation—which opened here Tuesday, may agree on far-reaching plans for East-West economic co-operation.

HOUSEHOLD HINT
If your kitchen strainer is rusted, it's time to throw it out. Strainer wire that is thin and rusted will wear through and rust, so it pays to buy quality in this, as in other kitchen equipment.

PGE Crosses Peace Almost Without Notice

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer
TAYLOR, B.C. (CP)—The Pacific Great Eastern Railway has crossed the Peace River, almost without notice.

Forty-six years ago, it set out from the Vancouver vicinity, 750 miles southwest of here, to open British Columbia's north and northeast, and almost from the time the idea was spawned its slogan has been: "On to the Peace."

Tuesday, at 3:30 p.m., the PGE tied its tracks to the Peace River bridge.

Only two persons, aside from the working crews, were on hand to witness the historic event near this tiny settlement, 10 miles south of Fort St. John.

ULTIMATE OBJECTIVE
They were two Fort St. John residents and long-time advocates of the PGE—George Murray, 68-year-old newspaper editor and former politician, and Alwin Holland, 47, an embittered school teacher north of the Peace in British Columbia.

The others on hand were the 80 men in the work crews who brought the steel to the bridge, a 1,200-foot structure completed last September.

"There was nothing to celebrate until the railway reached the Peace," said Mr. Murray, recalling the celebration at Little Prairie, 45 miles south of the bridge, when the first locomotive reached there several weeks ago.

"The whole objective was to reach the Peace. Once to the Peace, you are here. It's only a matter of days to Fort St. John, or elsewhere in the area. The big thing is to cross the Peace."

Mr. Murray, for eight years Liberal member of the B.C. legislature for Lillooet, campaigned on the PGE promotion in 1933 and 1937.

TRACHEOUS BARRIER
Mr. Holland, "worked and pleaded and talked railway since he took up his homestead in 1933," says Mr. Murray, who took the pioneer settlers to the bridge site for the occasion.

The Peace River has hampered trade between southern British Columbia and the agriculturally rich north Peace since the first homesteader arrived after the First World War.

Early farmers in the St. John region had to await the winter ice to cross to market, or ford the treacherous river.

In 1942, the Alaska Highway came through, and a suspension bridge was built, giving the area a tremendous economic shot in the arm. The highway linked St. John with the Northern Alberta Railway at Dawson Creek.

But the dream remained north of the Peace: to bring a railway from the Pacific coast to the Peace.

OIL AND GAS BOOM
It came 46 years after the idea was born, and more than 40 years after the PGE was launched. It came after an oil and gas boom began in the region, and its first payload out likely will be sulphur from a plant at Taylor, byproduct of St. John natural gas.

A political issue for years, the railway originally extended 250 miles north to Quesnel from Squamish, 30 miles north of Vancouver. Later it was extended to Prince George.

When the south end was linked with North Vancouver about two years ago, there was great fanfare.

Tuesday, the other objective—the Peace—was reached. And no body paid much attention.

Mission Ends Canadian Tour

VANCOUVER (CP)—Canada's hundreds of British firms established in Canada. They are in different stages, some assembly plants, some full manufacturing. They have become part of Canadian industry.

Sir William, chairman of Britain's Dollar Exports Council and Rootes Motors Limited, put the mission's purpose in a nutshell.

"We want more dollars in our kitty so we can spend more. At present the trade ratio between Canada and Britain is eight to five in your favor. We want to maintain that balance and to improve it if necessary."

MUST EXPAND
The council is not entirely concerned with trading within the Commonwealth or with dollar areas, said Sir William.

"If we're going to have full employment and a better standard of living we must have expanding world trade."

"We are not going to compete with your industrialization, but with your other sellers," said Henry F. Tiarks, another of the 11-man trade team, at the concluding press conference.

"Our greatest customers are the two most industrialized nations in the world—the United States and Germany."

Sir Norman Kipping, director-general of the Federation of British Industries, agreed.

"We do most of our trading with prosperous people because they have the most money to spend. The more a country industrializes the more it wants to buy."

SEES NO REVISION
"And there are things that follow trade," he continued. "For instance there now are some

Polio Cases Drop By 53 Percent

OTTAWA (CP)—Most Canadians in the polio-dangerous ages of five to 19 years have been vaccinated and as an apparent result the number of paralytic polio cases reported last year compared with 1956 dropped 53 per cent.

The health department said today 3,700,000 persons were vaccinated between 1955 and 1957 in the 5-19 age group, representing 80 per cent of the population between those ages. These are the years in which polio strikes most frequently.

In a report of trends of paralytic polio last year the bureau of statistics said today the 172 cases reported last year were the lowest on record and represented a 53-per-cent drop from the 369 reported in 1956.

New Cemetery, No Customers

WALPOLE ST. ANDREW, England (AP)—For two long decades Walter Hammond, gravedigger and custodian of the New Cemetery, has been waiting patiently for his first customer.

The cemetery was laid out in this Cambridgeshire village (population now 807) in 1938. There seemed to be a need. For years residents had been getting themselves buried in the jam-packed churchyards of neighboring parishes.

The rural council erected a fancy fence with wrought-iron gates around the acre of ground, and Walter in to run the show, and sat back to await business. They, and Walter, are still waiting.

Each day Walter tramps the lonely road to his cemetery, opens the wrought-iron gates and does a little caretaking. On the side, he grows a truck garden in the spaces where the graves ought to be.

In desperation the council advertised in the newspapers last February that New Cemetery "is now available for burials." No response.

"Maybe," said council clerk Ronald Dixon, "people insist on being buried where their parents and grandparents are buried. We have done all we can. It's a lovely little cemetery."

Walter, sadly weeding his onions, radishes and lettuce, said he sometimes despairs of ever making a start on his life's work.

"How do you like my hat?" asked a young wife innocently.

"It looks silly," said her tactful husband. "Why don't you return it?"

"Oh, I can't return it. You see it's my old one. But since you don't like it, I can go and buy a new one."

Blames Crisis In France on Loss of Youth

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham says the world's heart should go out to troubled France because "the flower of her youth, which should be in leadership today, lie buried on the banks of the Marne."

The energetic preacher, now in the fourth week of his well-attended San Francisco crusade, told an audience of 13,500 in the 16,500-seat Cow Palace Tuesday night:

"No country has paid a higher price for freedom than France. Long live France."

Graham's attentiveness to current events probably is one reason his crusade and companion appearances throughout the San Francisco area continue to draw overflow crowds. Through Tuesday night he had attracted 341,200 to the Cow Palace, where attendance was not expected to exceed 200,000 in the six-week revival.

TO TESTIFY ON BOOKS
Graham must appear Thursday before a state assembly subcommittee investigating the sale of smutty books. He was subpoenaed. Braxton Sawyer, an Arkansas revivalist, announced he was sending some material by express to Graham to present to the committee. Graham said he had no intention of even opening the package.

K. L. JOHNSON

K. L. (Ken) Johnson of Vancouver, well known in advertising and merchandising fields in this province and across Canada, has been elected Vice-President of Canadian Advertising Agency Limited. The election of Mr. Johnson, a Director of the agency, was announced following the recent annual meeting of the company in Montreal.

Masked Delegation Backs Housing Job

TORONTO (CP)—A masked delegation, which included entire families, turned up at a suburban Etobicoke council meeting Tuesday in support of a proposed low-rental housing project.

The families rent accommodation in a single-family dwelling area and wore the masks to hide their identity in order to protect themselves and landlords.

Landlords could be fined and tenants evicted under a zoning bylaw which prohibits more than one family in a single-family dwelling.

FACES REVOLT

President Hernan Siles Suazo of Bolivia has taken supreme command of the campaign to crush rebel forces that seized Santa Cruz, a city of 150,000 persons. A government bulletin said the revolt, headed by Falangists and Reds, had been thwarted.

Roam the romantic Cariboo and see the West as it was!

Progress—development—expansion: these are the words that tell the world of the goings-on in our Province.

But time has played a delightful trick by standing still in the Cariboo. And for that, every visitor is grateful. For here you can live in the Old West again, following the footprints of the pioneers and the prospectors.

From Ashcroft and Lillooet in the south up to Prince George in the northern part, the Cariboo country is dry and high, with cactus and sage, with prairie and hill and lake, with real ranches and dude ranches.

All the old sights are here: cattle ranges, old trail hotels, old timers who tell tall tales around the evening campfires. But best of all, the Cariboo can give you a new view of B.C. — rolling range plateaus, spectacular canyons, parklike wooded sections. Here, fish and shoot and camp out, or live a vacation life of comfort and ease, with the whinny of a spirited horse or the chuck wagon dinner bell as the only sounds to disturb your rest.

Roam the Cariboo this year — go by car, bus, train or plane. And come in time to see the special Centennial events, too: parades and picnics, banquets and barbecues, fairs and rodeos. Ask this newspaper for the newest programme of Centennial events in the Cariboo — and get ready for a holiday of fun and relaxation in British Columbia's Old West!

MAKE A NOTE OF THESE SPECIAL CENTENNIAL EVENTS:

U.S. Holding Its Own at Big Fair

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Art Linkletter, first American entertainer to return from the Brussels World's Fair, says the United States is holding its own against the free-spending Russians.

Though the Russian exhibit is much bigger and costlier, the U.S. entry is doing as good a job, he remarked.

"The Russian building is overpowering in its size," said Linkletter. "There are displays of tremendous machinery and propaganda slogans everywhere. It is effective in its way."

"But I think our building does a fine job. There have been some complaints about what has been selected, but that's natural."

Linkletter spent three days at the fair, filming segments for his People Are Funny and House-party television shows. But he's no sketchy viewer of fairs. Art helped stage the San Francisco and San Diego fairs, assisted with those at Houston, Dallas and Cleveland.

"So I know what I'm talking about," he said. "I viewed the Brussels fair with an eye toward ease of handling a volume of visitors; etc., and I must say that the Belgians have done a fantastic job. It is one of the best operated fairs I have ever seen."

THE PLAYING:
Opening lead—four of spades.

Far be it from me to give my views upon an unwilling public, but I have had a theory about bridge for a long time. I have found little support among the players I know.

It is my contention there's no such animal as a brilliant bridge player. Before the bricks come flying this way, let me explain what it is that I mean.

Bridge is a game of reasoning and logic. There are other important factors, such as psychology, temperament, etc., but basically the player who thinks soundly is the one who wins with the points.

If a bid or play is the correct bid or play in a given situation, then how can it be brilliant? A hand may be bid well, or played well, but, from the standpoint of par, that is what is to be expected, and the player who meets that expectation is only doing what he's supposed to do.

Sometimes a player makes the wrong bid or play and it happens to come out right. If this player repeatedly makes such wrong bids or plays, he is working against percentage and time will catch up with him.

But if his occasional triumph can be classed as brilliance, then I want no part of it.

Take today's hand. West opened a spade. East won with the ace, and declarer played the king. East naturally read the king as a singleton and mindful of dummy's jack of spades, shifted to a club. South discarded his other spade, lost a trump, and made five hearts.

If declarer had played his three of spades on the opening lead, East would have had no difficulty returning a spade for West to ruff, and South would have been down one.

We admire South's play all right. East was marked on the bidding with a six-card spade suit, and a ruff was therefore imminent. By dropping the king he might fool East and save a trick, which he did.

But brilliant? No. South made the right play, that's all.

Virginia Opposes School Integration

By BEM PRICE

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — A new sort of civil war, with southerner arrayed against southerner, may begin here.

Virginia has declared a policy of massive resistance to any form of school integration. It is one of seven states still holding that solid line.

But before the year is out, the country may well see Arlington County arguing the rights of a community against the state.

It could begin in erosive process that would leave the south split into islands of segregation.

In some measure, the process has begun. Once there were 17 states in the pro-segregation ranks. Now only 11 remain: Virginia, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Florida. There is no integration whatsoever in public schools.

TRY TO BEAT LAW

Four years ago today, the Supreme Court handed down a unanimous opinion declaring that it was unconstitutional to bar Negroes from public schools solely because of race.

In the years since, resisting states have erected a series of legal barricades to integration.

As a last-ditch measure, each of those remaining in the solid line has, in one form or another, set up machinery to close public schools altogether, either singly or collectively.

In the Arlington case, where seven Negroes are seeking entry into four white schools, there is apparently no room left for legal maneuvering to delay a showdown.

All that remains to be done in Arlington's case is for a federal judge to set a date for the beginning of integration. It probably will be in September.

Arlington has 1,400 Negro students among its 23,000 total.

Virginia law requires the closing of any school which admits a member of another race. If this doesn't discourage the applicant, the state is required to close the schools in the offending county on the particular educational level under attack; that is, all elementary or all high schools.

SEVERES AID

Further, the Virginia law automatically cuts off all state financial aid to the county in violation of compliance with a federal court order.

While members of the Arlington school board are resigned to a temporary closing of the schools, there is considerable evidence that Arlington is going to fight to maintain its public school system, which ranks as one of the best in the country.

Arlington, a suburb of Washington, D.C., is made up mostly of government workers with a median income of $3,489 and median educational level of more than 12½ years. This is one of the highest levels on both counts in the country.

What happens in Arlington is vital to the deep south. It could mean that a new pattern is beginning to emerge.

THIS IS REALLY 'PUSHING OFF' ON HOLIDAY

Members of the Piccadilly club didn't think their "pushing off" for Hollywood was going to be so literally true as it turned out to be. The club's 20 members hired a bus to take them from Toronto to Hollywood on a sightseeing tour and just as they were ready to start the journey, "Genevieve's" battery gave up. So the club members pushed Genevieve too until the bus engine turned over.

Lake Pumps Bolster City's Water Supply

Pumping from Okanagan Lake has been started to meet Penticton's increased water requirements of the summer, city council was told last night in the weekly report of E. R. Gayfer, superintendent of works.

The report noted that a watchman has been taken to No. 4 dam on Ellis Creek. A trip was also made to Penticton No. One dam. Snow was still heavy in the Penticton watershed at the higher elevations. Snow cover was still complete at the dam sites.

Tarring of the main flume on the Penticton irrigation system was carried out.

In the domestic water department, Mr. Gayfer's report said work was continuing on replacement of the two-inch line on Bennett Avenue and the connection dam. Snow was still heavy in the Board of work crews are continuing installation of the curb and gutter on the lakeshore with recapping of sidewalk also underway. Other sidewalk crews have been installing walks on Winnipeg Street, Front Street, and Main Street between Eckhardt and Wade.

Fill material has been placed on Penticton Avenue between Main and Government, for oiling later. Patching of gas line and service crossings and blacktopping of the cable strip in front of the Valley Hotel, were also carried out.

Further Study of Right-of-Way Land

The status of R. B. Anthony's property just below the intake reservoir on Penticton Creek, remained unsettled at city council meeting last night.

Firemen Show Return From Tax Dollars

"This is an excellent answer to the question: 'What do I get for my taxes?'"

So commented Penticton city council members last night when a letter was read from P. D. O'Brien, a resident of the east side of Skaha Lake, expressing "profound gratitude" to the Penticton fire department for promptly responding to a fire call at his home, May 11.

"There is no question that this prompt action saved our home," Mr. O'Brien said.

The firemen extinguished the blaze, resulting from a rubbish fire out of control, as it was starting to burn the wall of the carport on the north side of the O'Brien home.

Council added its own vote of commendation to the fire department for its prompt and efficient action.

Good Progress in Centennial Plans

PEACHLAND—After months of meetings and preparation, plans for the Centennial and Jubilee celebrations here are nearing final form. At a recent committee meeting all sub-committees reported good progress. Pete Spackman, convener of the "clean up" campaign, reported excellent results, and expressed his thanks to all property owners who had supported his efforts so far. He hoped for continued support from others, who expect to clean-up in the near future.

A letter is to be sent to each householder, asking co-operation in selection of nominees for the class "C" scrolls to be presented during the celebrations in July.

Removal of Boom May Cut Sediment

A suggestion to eliminate or reduce sediment in the domestic water system was adopted by Penticton city council last night on a trial basis.

E. R. Gayfer, superintendent of works, reported some opinion that removal of the boom above the domestic water intake on Penticton Creek would stop the sediment.

Feeling was that the boom, designed to catch logs and heavier debris from entering the intake pool, creates an undertow in the current which stirs up the sediment.

If the boom were removed, any bigger debris would be caught at the number one weir.

Council agreed to have the boom removed on a trial basis providing regular checks are made to ensure that the bridge at the intake is not endangered by logs or other debris.

Fire Quelled on Giant's Head Slope

SUMMERLAND — Fire on Sunday morning at the back of the Dunham house on Giant's Head Road roared up part of the dry south slope of Giant's Head through the pine needles and other leaves and grasses as far as the flume. It was brought under control by Summerland Volunteer Fire Brigade.

Mel Sager, local representative of the Inland Natural Gas Co., had moved into the large frame residence on Saturday and had been clearing up around the place. The fire is thought to have started from a bonfire.

Osoyoos Just Sagebrush in August, 1899

OSOYOOS — His first visit to Osoyoos in August, 1899 as a driver of the Royal Mail Stage, was related by George Watt of Okanagan Mission at the annual meeting of the Okanagan Historical Society here.

Mr. Watt drove the stage on the Fairview to Oroville, Wash., and the Fairview to Camp McKinney mail runs.

Fairview, west of Oliver, and Camp McKinney, about thirty miles east of Oliver were mining communities. Both are now ghost towns.

Osoyoos at that time consisted of acres of sagebrush, greasewood and cactus and the Customs Station buildings.

Only settlers between Fairview and Osoyoos were Charles DuBois and family, and the family of Mr. Green, provincial land surveyor, who lived on one of the benches between what is now Oliver and Osoyoos.
